The United States Department of Commerce's Discover Global Markets: Indo-Pacific is a dynamic 3-day business forum focused on bringing together global leaders across the aerospace, defense and cybersecurity sectors. Engage in matchmaking and networking sessions as well as build new business partnerships with U.S.-based executives.

Why Salt Lake City? Salt Lake City and the surrounding area is home to one of the largest concentrations of aerospace & defense and advanced materials employment in the United States. In fact, Utah is home to leading U.S. companies such as Boeing, Northrup Grumman Innovations, L-3 Communications, Hexcel and Albany Engineered Composites, just to name a few. The state's core aerospace and defense competencies include design, composites manufacturing, avionics software and control systems, sophisticated testing and MRO, as well as advanced space systems support. Site Visits and Training: Site visits and training opportunities are being developed for international executives to learn from top-level aerospace, defense and cybersecurity firms as well as advanced materials manufacturers and developers.
